

To whom it may concern:

I have not been a long time user of XM satellite radio, but have had a great time using it. Even though I don't use the weather and traffic stations that much, I can still tune in at anytime to check the status of each. This information is especially valuable during natural disasters (ie. hurricanes and floods).

The music stations are great! I don't have to spend hundreds of dollars buying CDs or downloading MP3s. The costs and benefits of XM satellite outweigh anything I have subscribed to in recent memory.

Please don't do away with one of the few pleasures I have in life.
